

A Forwardian Artist

Anja Gudic

Anja is a student attending Moore College of Art and Design in Philadelphia, as a major in illustration. Her involvement in the arts has won her many awards such as the Pocono Record NIE third place award, the annual Sebring Family Realism in Art award for 2009, Second place winner of Juliana V. Bolt Art award at East Stroudsburg University for a Martin Luther King Jr. Cover Design contest. She was also awarded the '50+' Art Fellowship scholarship by Stroudsburg High School. Her skills vary in using a wide range of media from oils to ink, markers, acrylics, charcoal, and a small introduction to digital media. Although her main interest is in portraiture and figures as themes, she enjoys doing landscapes and abstract art.

We are honored to present her work titled, “Fred's Theory.”

You'll be able to read her work in Sections G of our magazine through our link at: www.theforwardianartssociety.com/Forwardian-3-Contents.html.
